Old House Burns.

The old log house on the farm of Mr. T. J. Price burned from a faulty flue last Saturday. The house was occupied by Arthur Young and family and much of the contents were saved. This was probably one of the oldest houses in the county, being built of logs many, many years ago and was known as the Bill Come place.

The First Permanent Tooth.

The "baby teeth" are like flowers in your garden. They bloom and give you joy for a time and are gone. Like flowers they only reach the height of their beauty when properly cared for. The baby teeth are replaced by the permanent teeth, which will remain with us as long as we live if properly cared for. The first permanent tooth is called the "six-year molar." It is the first permanent tooth, and is always the oldest tooth in the mouth.

The six-year molars are frequently called the most important teeth in the mouth.

These teeth begin their growth at about the first month of embryonic life, so they have a good start by the time the child is born, but they do not "come in" until the child is 6 years of age, and the roots are not fully grown until the child is 10 years old or older.

These teeth "come in" just back of the baby teeth, and are frequently mistaken for baby teeth by parents, and sometimes by dentists.

There are four of these teeth—two in the upper jaw and two in the lower jaw—and they are of the utmost importance as they present a very large mastication during the time that the "baby teeth" are being lost; in fact, there are about two years, during which period the baby molars are being replaced, that they do most of the chewing. If prematurely lost, they always cause a collapse of the dental arch and frequently cause the face to be contracted. To the orthodontist (a dentist who straightens teeth) they are the key to the arch. By looking at their position he is able to determine if the jaws are in their proper relation to each other.

The premature loss of these teeth is a calamity to any individual, and they should be watched with jealous care. They come in during the most irresponsible period of childhood and no child at that age can be expected to pay any attention to the care of these important teeth without the watchful guidance of the parents.

The six-year molars "come in" before any of the baby teeth are lost, and it is a fact that 80 per cent of these teeth are lost before the age of 15 years, due to carelessness or ignorance of the fact that they are permanent teeth, or that they are mistaken for baby teeth.

If you care for the preservation of your child's health, there is every reason in the world why the baby teeth need as much care and attention as the permanent teeth. There is no possible excuse, no reason under the sun why either the baby teeth or the six-year molars should be neglected.

The baby teeth are easily forgotten by the child where they are so healthy and clean that they are lost in the natural way. If properly cared for they are lost as nature intended. They are not so easily forgotten when they are allowed to become a jagged broken, decayed and abscessed lot and are lost thru pain and sleeplessness.

The uncleanness of the baby teeth is surely transferred to the 6-year molars and the memory of pain endured and the physical scars of neglect will be carried thru life.

A child whose mouth is allowed to go to wreck and ruin thru ignorance or neglect on the part of the parents, who are responsible for both his physical and mental warfare, has every right to hold them responsible for his suffering.

The "baby teeth" should remain as white and sound as little pearls. It is absolutely criminal for parents to neglect the "baby teeth." It is worse to neglect the 6-year molars.

The last of the baby teeth are not lost until the tenth or eleventh year. The 6-year molar or the first permanent tooth has been in the mouth about four or five years by this time. The loss of one or more of these teeth means loss of normal occlusion, inability to properly chew and the tipping into the space of the second molar when the "wisdom tooth" erupts. The loss of occlusion is one of the causes of pyorrhea later in life.

Lipscomb & Lipscomb

SIMPSON HOUSE 9 to 11 A. M. LANCASTER, KY.

TO THE BOYS Of Garrard County.

PERSONAL PROPERTY

Sale At Auction.

In numerous counties in different States "Boys Dairy Clubs" have been formed and heifers bought and the boys have become interested in fine stock. Often Banks have "backed" the boys and the boys have always come through.

Now Listen Boys—If you want to buy one of the Jersey heifers at my sale Saturday the 25th, come right on. I will take your note. Your father can sign on the note. This is more to show his consent than anything else. Talk it over with your father and then see me I will talk to you about caring for the heifer and what to do. Boys in other places have made money and learned the stock business in this way. Why not you?

Talk it over with me.
Sincerely,
G. B. Swinebroad, Jr.

The following personal property will be sold belonging to the estate of M. S. Thompson, deceased, on Wednesday, September 29th, 1920, at the same time the farm is sold on Lexington Pike, Garrard County, Kentucky: 2 mares, 1 horse, well broken; 1 buggy and harness mowing machine, hay rake, cutting harrow, 2 Vulcan turning plows, 2 double shovels, 1 single plow, wagon harness, 1 single disc harrow; 1 pair of double trees, 4500 tobacco sticks, wire fence stretchers, and many other things needed and used on the farm, too numerous to mention.
